depends upon your client list. If you are a portrait photographer, whose clientele consists of local families, then a local place would suffice. However, if you mainly do product or fashion photography, your business is better off situated near the city center. Studio costs could also be an inhibiting factor.

In most cases, even a 100 square-foot room is enough to fit all of your home photography studio gear. Place your background stand against one of the walls, set up the light stands in front, and that's it! One factor you need to consider for your studio is the number of people you can fit in it. Do you like to photograph groups of people?
